

E. P. Soldier invents Mobile Mess Hall

Members of the 630th Engineer Company can be sure hot meals will follow them wherever they travel in the Ashau Valley in Vietnam, thanks to the idea of El Pasoan Sfc. Richard E. Huskins.

Sfc. Huskins has devised a mobile mess hall, a house-like structure mounted on a ten ton flat bed trailer. The kitchen equipment is housed inside with one side used as a serving line.

He said he brought the innovation from Germany where he was mess sergeant for an engineering company.

This article was donated by Jim Fitzgerald.